Coaches Corner- Handbook Recap

As we kick off the Fall 2023 season, we wanted to remind our coaches and parents about our code of conduct. Coaches should model the club's core values at all times. Parents should model good sportsmanship from the sidelines. Among other things, this means coaches and parents should refrain from yelling at the referees and players. Referees will make mistakes and bad calls. That is part of the game. And our players are learning and will certainly make mistakes. Even professional soccer players misplay a ball now and then! Rather than criticism, what our players need is encouragement and positive cheering from the sidelines. By working together to create a positive environment, we can help ensure our players have fun and develop their soccer skills.
